EUCALYPTUS OIL.

Owing to the great success of Eucalyptus Oil as a remedy against Influenza, Colds, Muscular Rheumatism, &c., the market has been flooded with cheap oils distilled from any available species of Eucalyptus, and in consequence the acrid character has an effect very similar to Turpentine when applied to the skin.

We guarantee our brand of Eucalyptus Oil to be free from any acrid principle whatever and even when applied without admixture to the most delicate skin not to cause irritation or blistering.

It is an invaluable remedy for the diseases and troubles caused by cold weather, and people who have once tried it will never be without a bottle in their houses.

NOW READY.

THE CHRONICLE AND DIRECTORY FOR CHINA, JAPAN, STRAITS, &c., &c., FOR 1893,

With which is incorporated THE CHINA DIRECTORY.

This is the THIRTY-FIRST ANNUAL ISSUE, and will be found, as usual, to show an advance on preceding years both in fullness and accuracy of information.

The DIRECTORY covers the whole of the ports and cities of the Far East, from Penang to Vladivostock, in which Europeans reside.

Not only is the Directory as full and complete in each case as it can be made, but each Colony, Port, or Settlement is prefaced by a DESCRIPTION, carefully revised each year, some of which will serve as accurate GUIDES for the Tourist, giving every detail in connection with the places, their History, Topography, &c., &c.

The Information afforded in these Descriptions alone would suffice to fill an ordinary volume, consisting of over EIGHTY highly interesting articles, packed with facts concisely set out, and containing statistics of the TRADE of each Country and Port.

The work contains Directories and Descriptions of

HONGKONG, FEBRUARY 24TH, 1893.

THE revelations made at the secret meeting of the Legislative Council on Wednesday with respect to the Treasury frauds realise the worst anticipations. That the revelations should have been made at a secret meeting of the Council is due no doubt simply to one of those unaccountable blunders which the Government stumbles into whenever opportunity offers, and not to any deliberate intention to hush the matter up. It usually has been the practice to proceed with the revision of the jury list after the other business has been disposed of at an ordinary meeting of Council. As the revision is conducted in private the reporters have been directed to withdraw, but all the other business having been taken first nothing of public interest remained unchronicled. And even when a special meeting has been held for the sole purpose of revising the jury list notification has always on former occasions been sent to the Press, although the reporters were not allowed to remain after the formality of reading the minutes of the previous meeting had been gone through. But on this occasion, although the Government must have decided beforehand that the questions respecting ALVES were to be answered, since the Colonial Secretary came with the answers ready prepared, the Press was kept in ignorance of the fact that a meeting was to be held. The case was already bad enough without the Government's bringing further contempt upon itself by stupid bungling in a little matter of this kind. It is of no great importance in itself, for the answers given to the questions asked by Messrs. CHATER and WHITEHEAD will in ordinary course be entered on the minutes and published in the Gazette, but it affords a slight illustration of the carelessness and happy-go-lucky system of the Government offices, and lessens our surprise at the fact that it should be possible for a clerk to steal the large sum of $59,000 and that his embezzlements should be allowed to continue for a period of four years without being detected.

THE question has been raised at Yokohama whether the accounts of a public company should be published by newspapers against the wishes of the directors. There are not many public companies that do not wish to have their reports published, and in England, where it is not customary to insert such reports in the papers as items of news, many companies advertise them. There are exceptions to the rule, however. Sometimes a business is organised on a limited liability basis but remains to all intents and purposes as much a private concern as an ordinary partnership, the general public never being invited to subscribe for the shares nor being allowed to acquire an interest after the formation of the Company. This organisation is occasionally adopted for the purpose of giving the employés of a concern pecuniary interest in it, and it is also frequently adopted by Clubs, with the internal affairs of which the public has no concern whatever. For a newspaper to publish the reports of such companies against the wish of the directors, though perfectly legal, would display a want of consideration and courtesy. But when the prospectus of a Company has been advertised and the public have been invited to subscribe for shares the right of privacy has been abandoned, and from that time the affairs of the Company may fairly be considered public property. The case which has arisen at Yokohama is in connection with the business of DEAKIN & Co., Limited. The Japan Herald published the report and is severely taken to task for doing so by the Japan Gazette. It appears it was not the intention of the directors that the report should appear in the papers, and the Herald had to obtain a copy as best it could, presumably from a shareholder. But if we remember rightly, when the business of DEAKIN & Co. was transformed into a limited liability concern a very brilliant prospectus was issued and the public were invited to subscribe for the shares. It is to the interest of the public, therefore, that they should be made aware of the working of the Company and of how far the promises held out in the prospectus have been fulfilled, and this not merely for the purpose of catering to a low curiosity but on grounds of public policy. If a rule were laid down, either by law or custom, that the reports of companies to which the public have been invited to subscribe could be suppressed at the will of the directors, the operations of company promoters would be greatly facilitated. DEAKIN & Co., Limited, are curio dealers, and the Japan Gazette urges that in a small place like Yokohama, where several firms are competing in precisely the same business, the publication of any one firm's accounts is of material assistance to its rivals, and the curio trade is no exception to the rule. The answer to this is that in businesses of this description, where publicity of the accounts is considered a disadvantage, the public ought not to be invited to come in as shareholders.

H.M.S. Redpole arrived here yesterday from Canton.

The D. D. R. steamer Diesdne, from Hamburg, left Singapore yesterday for this port.

A Masonic social evening was given by the members of the craft at Kobe on the 13th inst.

The Earl of Dysart is a passenger by the French mail steamer Oxus, which arrived last night.

The date of the meeting of the Green Island Cement Co., Limited, has been altered from the 28th inst. to the 9th March.

The Band of the 1st Shropshire Light Infantry will play the following programme on the Barrack Square, Murray Barracks, this evening, commencing at half-past seven:—

Polka	"Keep Time"	Kothan.
Valse	"Morceba"	Bucalossi.
Quadrille	"Olympia"	Williams.
Schottische	"Homeguard"	Smith.
Lancers	"King of the Revels"	Williams.
Valse	"Butterfly"	Maris D'Albert.
Quadrille	"Merry England"	Williams.
Polka	"Barfadet"	Fahrbach.

The replies sent by each House of the Japanese Diet to the Imperial Rescript are very similar in tone and in effect are as follows:—"The members of the House of Peers, the humble servants of Your Most Gracious Majesty, most humbly and respectfully beg to assure Your Majesty that as at this early date in the operation of the Constitution Your Majesty has given a most gracious Rescript, we, Your Majesty's most humble servants, cannot fail to comply with Your Majesty's commands and follow a policy of harmonious co-operation with the Government and fulfil our duty by supporting Your Imperial measure."

We have received from the Hyogo News Office a copy of the Sheet Directory for Hyogo and Osaka. The title is somewhat misleading as the Directory is almost entirely one for the Foreign Settlement of Kobe. It is arranged alphabetically, which renders it much more useful for reference than the directories published at Yokohama, these being arranged by the numbers of the lots. It is also more useful owing to its not following the plan adopted by most directories in the Far East, of giving the names of hosts of natives. It gives an alphabetical list of residents and a plan of the Foreign Concession. The names of 207 ladies prove how the port has grown. It was only opened in 1868.

A horrible death at a fire is reported from Penang. It appears, says the Penang Gazette, that the wife of the occupier of the house, who was an old Chinaman, had been suffering from small-pox which had not been reported to the police. The woman died some time during the previous night, and on the fact being reported to the police, a constable was sent to guard the house pending medical inspection. It is supposed that while waiting for the medical officer's visit the occupier formed the determination of putting an end to his life, and the front door of the house being closed, he is believed to have emptied out the contents of several tins of kerosine oil on the first floor, where his wife's corpse lay, and then to have set fire to the oil. Two bodies, burnt to cinders, were afterwards found together, with several kerosine tins in close proximity.

The Japan Mail says:—"It is somewhat singular that newspaper men are required to serve on juries in the foreign Settlement of Yokohama, while in the Crown Colony of Hongkong they are wholly exempt. Possibly, if the question were tested, it might be found that persons engaged on newspapers in a Crown Colony have really no better title to be excused than those residing in a foreign Settlement in the East; or that, if the former possess a legitimate claim to exemption, the latter do also." For the information of our contemporary we may point out that in this Colony members of the Press are exempted from service on juries by the local Ordinance, whereas in the foreign Settlements the English law applies and under that law there is no such exemption.

The Emperor of Japan's declaration of his intention to contribute $300,000 a year for six years to the fund for building men-of-war seems to have fired the enthusiasm of the nation. The Japan Gazette says:—Nothing could have more emphatically demonstrated the impulsiveness of the Japanese character than the complete pironette which public opinion has performed within the last few days. Only a week or so ago the whole country, or we should say that portion of the forty millions sufficiently educated to know what was transpiring and to take any interest in political concerns, stood in much the same attitude towards the man-of-war construction estimate as Ajax did towards the lightning. They would gladly have devoted their all to seeing the estimates flung into a bottomless pit and the Government discomfited thereby. But now, what do we see? We see members of the Opposition both within and without the House, politicians of all shades and creeds, flinging their contributions into the men-of-war pool in hot haste, and vieing with one another to realize the Government's desires. Whether the monies so contributed will be devoted to this purpose or not, the fact that the public, the Opposition, and they who had opposed the increase of the Navy on principle, should have been brought to not only accede to it but be willing to hasten its operation by personal sacrifice and at personal expense, cannot be other than a most unique triumph for the Government.

The following items are from the London and China Express of the 20th ult.:—

A telegram from Duluth, Minnesota, announces that Judge Nelson, of the Minnesota State Court, gave a decision on the 19th inst., declaring the Chinese Exclusion Act to be contrary to the constitution, on the ground that it violates the right of trial by jury.

The National Bank of China (Limited) gives notice of resolutions for altering the articles of association, which will be proposed at the ordinary general meeting, to be held in Hongkong on March 23 next, and submitted for confirmation to an extraordinary general meeting on April 8. The object of the alterations is to obviate the necessity of maintaining a board of directors in Shanghai, which has been found a useless expense. The London committee, it is stated, fully concur with the Hongkong board in the proposed proceeding.

We may note as a curious feature in exchange that rather than remain uncovered in their transactions with the Far East merchants are willing to accept rates 1d. per dollar lower for delivery of bills against shipments in April and May than at the present time. Another curious point is that notwithstanding the stringency in financial affairs in Hongkong at the present moment, silver is just at the bullion point for shipment to India, the exchange being Rs.225 and more per $100, as against a usual rate of about Rs.221. We are truly seeing some extraordinary developments in connection with the silver question.

HONGKONG RACE MEETING.

THE FIRST DAY.

Fortune smiled in more ways than one upon the opening day of the Hongkong Race Meeting for the year of grace 1893. Hopes and fears for the success of the gathering, around which so many honourable traditions of the past have clustered, were set at rest before the first race was run, and there was no feature present to mar the enjoyment or discount the success of the occasion. Though gloomy clouds overhung the Valley when the morning broke they were dissipated before noon by warm and cheerful sunshine which gave brightness to the decorations on the long line of stands, and lent a pleasing fitness to the charming summer costumes in which the large number of ladies present were attired. For more than that, however, were the sun's rays particularly acceptable, and in the eyes of sportsmen this consideration naturally was of supreme importance. Mr. Hough, the energetic Clerk of the Course, must have looked with very pardonable pride upon the result of his efforts, for a better racing track could hardly have been desired, the warmth and drying breeze having given a surface to it which scarcely showed any signs of wear after the hard day's work. No circumstance, of the many which were feared, arose to introduce the element of unpleasantness, dissatisfaction, or failure into the meeting, and if the same good auspices are vouchsafed for the remaining days there can be no question that the Hongkong Races are re-established on the good footing of the past, while their success on this occasion may perhaps be regarded as a good augury of a like revival in the more important respect of commercial prosperity and progress.

Shortly before 12 o'clock H.E. the Governor Sir William Robinson, Lady Robinson, Miss Robinson, and a large number of ladies and gentlemen arrived, and the pleasing ceremony of opening the new Grand Stand was almost immediately proceeded with. The building is not quite finished but even now presents an imposing and palatial appearance. A roof of matting was placed over it, decorated in suitable manner, and the structure certainly combines the commodiousness which is required with graceful and ornamental design. Even in the incomplete stage in which at the present moment it appears admiration was generally expressed, and when the work is finished there can be little doubt that it will be regarded as a grand stand alike worthy of the Hongkong Jockey Club and the architects (Messrs Danby, Leigh and Orange) who are responsible for its construction. To witness the opening ceremony a large number gathered on the steps, and before asking His Excellency to undo the dainty bow by which the gates were fastened, and declare the new stand open,

Hon. C. P. Chater said—On behalf of my fellow stewards and the members of the Hongkong Jockey Club I have to ask your Excellency to do us the honour of opening this new Grand Stand, although, for a variety of reasons, I regret very much it is not yet quite finished. I feel that it is unnecessary for me to dwell at any great length on the events and circumstances which caused us to come to the determination that we should replace by a new stand the old one, which had grown inconvenient, and which moreover had become far too small to give sufficient accommodation to the increasing numbers of the place. I must, however, mention one fact, and it is this. On the examination of our lease of these grounds it was discovered that the lease had been granted for only 14 years instead of 75 years as had been promised by the Government in an official communication to the then stewards. This fact was brought before the notice of your Excellency's predecessor, Sir William Des Voeux, and he consented to the alteration we desired being made, but, unfortunately, he left the colony before the matter had been finally put through. It was therefore left to your Excellency to give your consent to the alteration which has secured for us a 75 years' lease, and which has thereby enabled us to expend without much anxiety the large sum of $25,000 on the erection of this stand and the arranging of these grounds. Your Excellency's name therefore will in a measure be always connected with this new grand stand, which I trust is destined to see as good sport as the one we have just replaced. At all events if the sport supplied in future years is as good as that of the past I am sure the members of the Hongkong Jockey Club will have no reason to complain. With these few remarks I will ask your Excellency to declare this new Grand Stand duly open. (Applause.)

His Excellency, in reply, said—Mr. Chater, ladies and gentlemen, I am very much obliged to you, Mr. Chater, for the very kind words you have addressed to me, and to the members of the Hongkong Jockey Club who have so cordially approved of what Mr. Chater has said. I must say that I think I only acted as a man of business in what I did in regard to the lease. I found that I had a very good tenant on a short lease, and I therefore determined to give him a long lease in order that he might erect this beautiful and substantial building on my property. (Applause). If my name is connected in any way with this fine stand, and if what has been done will in any way benefit that great institution, the Hongkong Jockey Club, I shall be amply repaid. I am very glad indeed to declare this Grand Stand open, and I trust that the beautiful day with which we are favoured may be an augury of a most successful meeting. (Loud applause).

His Excellency then untied the silken knot, opened the gates, and, with Mrs. Bell-Irving, entered the stand, at the beauty and appointments of which His Excellency expressed much admiration. A magnificent bouquet of roses was handed by Mr. Hough to Lady Robinson, who was conducted by Hon. C. P. Chater, and the general company then speedily filled the seats, while the ponies cantered past on the way to the starting-post for the first race, and the Band of the Shropshire Regiment, who, under Mr. Murphy, provided excellent music during the afternoon, discoursed a lively air.

The stewards were:—His Excellency Sir William Robinson, K.C.M.G.; His Excellency Vice-Admiral the Hon. Sir E. R. Fremantle, K.C.B.; His Excellency Major-General Digby Barker, C.B.; Commodore Bury Palliser; Colonel Macdonell, R.A.; Colonel Mulloy, R.E., Lieut.-Colonel Barenhill, Shropshire Regiment; Lieut.-Colonel Barrow, Hongkong Regiment; the Hon. C. P. Chater; the Hon. T. H. Whitehead; the Hon. J. J. Bell-Irving; Mr. H. Hoppius; Mr. J. Great; Mr. R. M. Gray; Mr. M. Grote; Mr. J. D. Humphreys; Mr. J. McEvoy Bowra; Mr. F. de Bovis. Clerk of Scales—Mr. H. Hoppius. Judge—The Hon. C. P. Chater. Starter—Mr. Grote. Second Starter—Mr. J. Armstrong. Hon. Treasurer—Mr. H. E. R. Hunter. Clerk of the Course—Mr. F. F. Hough.

THE DAY'S RACING.

By X.

The first day's racing did not belie the anticipations which the training gallops had aroused. It was generally thought that there was little to choose between the great majority of the candidates, and as the result proved this actually was the case. The griffins, as I have said all along, are a very poor lot, and of them Varuna and Black Pearl stand most prominent. With regard to the respective merits of these two, I said six weeks ago that Black Pearl would win the Derby, and on the eve of the race I gave it as a special tip—the only one indeed upon which I felt absolutely secure. The result of the race for the Blue Ribaud amply justified my confidence and those who have scoffed at seemingly imprudent assurance may now keep their opinion to themselves. Out of the nine events I was fortunate in pointing out Black Pearl, Varuna, Talisman, Khedive, Majestic, Islander, and Homeguard as winners, which can scarcely be regarded as a bad record for the first day, when the relative strength of the contestants has not been put to the test. The racing yesterday upon the whole was scarcely of the exciting type; indeed there was only one close finish, that being the one in which my fancy Amenable was beaten by Steadfast in the Compradores' Cup. Nevertheless the events were full of interest, and if the same sport is witnessed on the two remaining days we may well regard the meeting as a success. The ball was opened with the Wongnei-chong Stakes and, as I feared, Khedive gave a great deal of trouble at the post, before the crowd could ultimately be got in line. When, however, he really got the signal he buckled to the job in capital style and literally romped in, Primrose, of whom not a little has recently been said, being second and Susewind (an absurd tip in some quarters) all the way last. The Ashley Cup, which was next on the card, proved a gift for the grand Majestic, who cantered home a very easy winner. Then came the Derby, the result of which I have already mentioned. Money, strange to say, was laid heavily on the good looking Islander, but I failed entirely to discover where in the preference was justified, for the training has always shown the black pony of Mr. Hoppius to be far the better of the two. And as a matter of fact he won hands down. The Foochow Cup, the first race after tiffin, proved somewhat of a surprise, the game old Vagrant beating the field in a very hollow manner. Bovril, for whom such a high price was recently paid, did not show prominently at any part of the struggle, and I must confess that to me it appeared as though Mr. Sassoon did not more him quite fast enough in the early stages, but allowed him to drop a great deal too far in the rear before asking him to extend himself. If this waiting policy—admittedly a good one in a long race—is not overdone to-day I fully expect the splendid duo to retrieve the failure of his first attempt. For the Valley Stakes a very large field turned out, but being a good behaved lot there was not much difficulty experienced in getting them off. Mr. J. D. Humphreys made a triumphant début or re-début, if I may so call it, into our little racing world, by carrying off the event with Varuna, and, as I believe, he arrived last night by the French mail we may perhaps have an opportunity to-day of congratulating the cheery gentleman on his success. Certainly Varuna is the best of the whole lot of subscription griffins, and I fully expect him to continue in the path of victory which he had commenced to tread. Features of the race were the game display of Assyrian and the plucky attempt of Stonehenge. Amenable did not flatter his supporters at this distance. The Lusitano Cup was the next item and resolved itself speedily into a tussel betw en Talisman and Porpoise, in which, as was generally expected, the former had considerably the best of it. Islander turned out to beat two very inferior animals in Torchlight and Popper and Salt for the Canton Cup and had not the slightest difficulty in disposing of them. Only two old ponies, Homeguard and Vagrant, contested for the Hongkong Club Cup and the rare representative of the house of Buxey beat the winner of the Foochow Cup in the commonest of canters. He possesses the true racing stride—a grand greyhound kind of leap—and nothing, as far as I can see, has a chance of touching him in the Champions, in which important event I fully expect him to repeat his performance of 1890 when he beat Leander and Volcano. The concluding event of the day was the Compradores' Cup, for which I thought Amenable would have been good enough. Though the rusty poor-looking black ran exceedingly well he could not quite catch Steadfast, but he easily beat Mervyn (an outside chance) and the other rags behind. This brought the programme to a close, and before I close I think the stewards and the various officials are deserving of congratulation for the manner in which their onerous duties were discharged. The races were brought off sharp to time and the starters did their difficult work well In looking over the card for to-day I experience not a little difficulty in making my selections, because in most of the events the starters have not yet been definitely determined upon by the owners themselves. However, I append my opinions, based on the presumption that a clear night indicates a continuance of fine weather which will keep the course in its present excellent condition and that the going will even be faster than yesterday.

DETAILS OF THE RACES.

The WONG-NEI-CHONG STAKES, for China ponies; weight for inches; subscription griffins of this season, 1892-93, allowed 7 lbs.; entrance $5, with $100 added. Half-a-mile.

Mr. Derick Hunter's Khedive, 11st. 11lb.....
(Mr. Midwood) 1
Mr. Cass's Primrose, 11st 11lb...(Mr. Taylor) 2
Mr. John Peel's Guardsman, 10st 12lbs.....
(Mr. Hough) 3
Mr. Boyd's Duncon, 11st 11lb. (Mr. Marshall) 0
Mr. Littlejohn's Susewind, 11st 11lb.....
(Mr. Maolean) 0
Mr. G. H. A. Willis's Parmesan, 11st. 11lb...
(Mr. Meadon) 0

Primrose started a favourite at even money, Khedive being second in demand at short odds, his well-known temper having doubtless a good deal to do with the cream usurping first place in public estimation. Mr. Midwood rode a hack to the post, his fractious mount walking thither. He soon indulged in a little circus of his own and for fully ten minutes he kept his rider very busy, and the rest of the field waiting. Several breaks-away ensued before Mr. Grote at length got them away to a capital start. Primrose jumped to the front followed by the rogue, with Guardsman third and the rest of the field nowhere, Susewind especially being conspicuously in the rear. At the 1½ mile post the order was the same, Guardsman showing some signs of having had enough. Coming up the straight with Primrose on the inside it looked like a race between the cream and Khedive, but the latter without an effort, coming along in grand style won by half a length; Guardsman a bad third. Time, 1.04.

The ASHLEY CUP, presented by D. R. Sassoon, Esq., for China ponies; entrance $5, to go to the winner; weight for inches. One mile.

Mr. Treban's Majestic, 11st. 7lbs. (Mr. Sassoon) 1
Mr. John Peel's Merrythought, 11st. 11lb....
(Mr. Hough) 2
Mr. Boyd's Duncraggan 10st 12lbs.....
(Mr. Marshall) 3

The conqueror of the mighty Hero was of course the favourite for this event, although Merry Thought had a few supporters. Duncraggan was quite neglected. After a short delay at the post, occasioned by the inevitable dog which got on to the course, the flag fell to a capital start. Merry Thought took the lead on the inside, with Majestic next and the dun on the rear. At the quarter mile post the old grey went along in good style, but Mr. Sassoon would not let him get away and before the hill was reached Majestic had got to his opponent's girths, and passing the rock led for the first time. Duncraggan meanwhile had fallen a long way behind. Nearing the village Merry Thought was in trouble and though he responded gamely to the call made upon him he was never dangerous and Majestic romped in a very easy winner by a clear length. Duncraggan nowhere. Time, 2 min. 8¼ secs.

The HONGKONG DERBY, sweepstakes of $30 each, half forfeit if declared on or before day of closing entries, with $250 added for 1st pony, and $100 for 2nd; for all China ponies bonâ fide griffins at date of entry (Saturday, 21st January, 1893), first pony, 70 per cent; second, 20 per cent; third, 10 per cent.; weight for inches. One mile and a half.

Mr. Heinrich's Black Pearl, 11st. 11lb.....
(Mr. Sassoon) 1
Mr. Buxey's Islander, 10st. 9lbs (Mr. Master) 2
Mr. John Peel's Liberty, 10st. 12lb. .....
(Mr. Hough) 3

Investments were freely bestowed on Liberty, but no price could be obtained against Black Pearl, though 4 to 1 was offered in respect to Mr. Hough's mount. As they passed the stand Liberty unquestionably was most admired and Islander also looked spick and span for the great event. A capital start was given, Black Pearl taking the inside berth with Islander going level. The race was not one of incident, as the two favourites raced neck and neck a long way ahead. Mr. Sassoon, who rode with the greatest judgment, waited at the mile post for his opponent, who was close up, to come to him, but when the village was reached it was apparent that the black had it all to himself, and coming along in his grandest style passed the judge two lengths ahead; Liberty a bad third. Time, 3 min. 18 secs. When Mr. Hoppius led his triumphant pony to the enclosure he was loudly cheered, and the rider also came in for no small share of applause.

The FOOCHOW CUP, value $200 presented by the Foochow Community, for China ponies; weight for inches; entrance $5. Two miles.

Mr. John Peel's Vagrant, 10st. 12lb. .....

siderable extent. Among them was his reconnaissance survey of the famous Caribou goldregion, a work accomplished in the face of great difficulties. It was in this year (1862) that he and his little party were saved from massacre at the hands of the Bella Coola Indians at North Bentinck Arm only by his own coolness and address and knowledge of the Indian character. The reports and maps prepared by him in connection with these surveys were published from time to time in the Parliamentary and Colonial Blue Books. Shortly after his return to England in 1864, Lieutenant Palmer was appointed to the Ordnance Survey, and in 1867, being then a Captain, he was named Assistant Commissioner in the Parliamentary Boundaries Commission under Mr. Disraeli's Reform Act. About this time, in conjunction with his friend the late Rev. Pierce Butler, of Ulcome Rectory, Kent, Captain Palmer engaged actively in projecting the survey of the Sinaitic peninsula, of which the circumstances and results are too well known to call for any detailed reference here. To the magnificent volumes, published by the authority of the Treasury, which were the fruits of that expedition, Captain Palmer contributed largely, some two-fifths of the descriptive matter, together with the computation of the astronomical and other work of the survey, the drawing of several of the maps and the part editing of the whole work having fallen to his share. After his return from Sinai in 1869, Captain Palmer was often invited to speak and lecture on the subject. He thus addressed several important meetings, such as the University of Cambridge in 1870, the Church Congress in the same year, and the Archæological Congress in 1872. In 1873 he was recommended to the Admiralty, then Hydrographer to the Admiralty, for a chief astronomership in the enterprise for observing the transit of Venus, and Sir George Airy soon afterwards nominated him to be chief of the New Zealand party, a nomination approved by the Admiralty. On this service, after a course of practical preparation at the Royal Observatory, during which he gained the full confidence of Sir George Airy, he left England in June, 1874, accompanied by Lieut Darwin, R.E., and Lieut. Crawford, R.N., as his assistants, the party including several noncommissioned officers of Engineers in the capacity of trained practical photographers. For the results and achievements in New Zealand, Major Palmer was very highly praised by the Astronomer Royal, who spoke of "his new arrangements for establishing his own station, and for organizing the whole country into an assembly of observers," as having been "most admirable and worthy to be taken as a model in the future;" and, later, of his "extensive preparations" as having been "made with the greatest skill and judgment." Astronomical observations were not Major Palmer's only work in New Zealand. At the request of the Governor, the Marquis of Normanby, he undertook an investigation of the provincial surveys throughout the colony with the view of advising the Government as to the best means of evolving order out of the chaos that then existed, and of placing the whole future system on a uniform, intelligent, and scientific basis. His results and recommendations were embodied in a Blue Book Report, for which he was warmly thanked by the Government, and which was adopted as the guide to subsequent reforms. Corps duties next took Major Palmer to the Barbados station in the capacity of Resident Engineer, and in 1876 he was appointed to serve as Aide-de-camp to the Governor of the Windward Islands, Mr. Pope Hennessy. At the close of the following year he was appointed Executive Engineer at Hongkong, shortly after arriving in which Colony in April, 1878, he received the additional appointment of Engineer of the Admiralty Works at that station and A.D.C. to the Governor. In 1881, he drew up a design for a Physical Observatory for Hongkong to comprehend Astronomical, Magnetical, Meteorological, and Tidal observations. This project and the report accompanying it were referred to the Kew Committee of the Royal Society, who recommended their adoption without the alteration of a single item, and Major Palmer received the official thanks of the Secretary of State for the Colonies. The scheme was afterwards somewhat cut down by the Colonial Office on grounds of economy, but the present Observatory, so far as it goes, is in conformity with Major Palmer's project, on which competent authorities have since pronounced in terms of the highest approval, asserting that it deserves to rank as a standard guide for constructing observatories of that class in the Colonies or elsewhere. At a dinner of the Royal Astronomical Society in London in July, 1883, the Astronomer Royal, in proposing Colonel Palmer's health, dwelt specially on the merits of the Hongkong Observatory scheme. In 1881, Colonel Palmer was invited a second time to conduct an expedition for observing the transit of Venus in New Zealand, but other views induced him to decline the offer. In the same year he made an exact determination of the latitude of the proposed Hongkong Observatory Station. Early in the following year he visited Japan en route for England, and, at the instance of Sir Harry Parkes, was invited by the Japanese Government to prepare a project for a Waterworks at Yokohama, and after an interval during which he held the post of Commanding Engineer of the Manchester District, his services were lent to Japan by the British Government for the purpose of carrying out the above project. Under his direction the Waterworks commenced in the summer of 1885, and brought to a successful completion in October, 1887. The excellence of the design and the thoroughly efficient manner in which it was carried out are attested by the fact that though the conditions of the work were exceptionally difficult, no defect of any kind has developed itself in the course of over five years' operation. While engaged on this work, he designed projects of water-supply for Osaka and—Hakodate, and harbour-works for the Yokohama Harbour Company. Having retired from the Corps of Royal Engineers in 1887, with the honorary rank of Major-General, he established himself in civil practice in Yokohama, and shortly afterwards the Emperor of Japan conferred on him the Third Class decoration of the Order of the Rising Sun in recognition of his past services. Later, he drew up a design of water-supply for Kobe, and a scheme for a large irrigation-syphon at Misakamura, in Hyogo prefecture, which was successfully carried out under his direction in 1889. He was also the designer of a scheme for a water-supply to Tokyo, now being carried out on the lines laid down by him, and in the summer of 1888 he prepared a fresh competitive scheme for the Yokohama Harbour Works on an extended basis. Appointed to superintend these works, he had carried them within sight of successful completion, and had also prepared designs for a Repairing Basin and a system of Graving Docks for Yokohama, when death cut short his career.

Major-General Palmer was a man of exceptionally clear, vigorous intellect, and remarkable breadth and liberality of view. His faculty of rapid calculation was of a high order, and he possessed a rare power of assimilating and marshalling facts. Upon every work entrusted to his direction he brought to bear unwearying strength of scrutiny and tenacious industry, so that his conceptions were admirably exact and his execution correspondingly free from error. As a technical expert he rendered signal service to Japan, and in his congenial rôle of writer he laid her under obligations which can never be requited. Naturally kindly instincts and a clear estimate of England's real interests in this quarter of the East led him to advocate sympathetic and kindly treatment of Japan. His series of letters to The Times did more to familiarize Anglo-Saxon readers with the true state of affairs in this empire than anything that has been written in the past, or is likely to be written hereafter. A style clear and full of verve, a large range of reading, and an exceptional command of language rendered his letters to the great journal not less interesting than cogent. He was in truth a man of rare gifts and a really wonderful instinct of orderliness enabled him to utilize his faculties to the full. In every life he showed a keen appreciation of humour, and his power of anecdote made him a delightful companion whose memory will long be cherished by a wide circle of friends and admirers.

A curious observation has been reported to the French Academy by M. A. Chaveau. If one goes to sleep on a seat placed obliquely in front of a window which allows the light from white clouds to fall equally on both eyes, the coloured objects in the room appear illuminated with a very bright green light during a very short interval as the eyelids are opened. The phenomenon is observed only at the moment of awakening from a profound sleep. From this it is concluded that there are distinct nerve centres for green, and probably also for red and violet, and that the perceptive centres for green first regain activity on awakening.

THE MAGIC MIRRORS OF JAPAN.

Professor Sylvanus Thompson gave a lecture on the "Magic Mirrors of Japan," at the meeting of the Odd Volumes at Limmer's Hotel on December 2nd. Black and White gives an account of the lecture:—

"At the December meeting of the 'Odd Volumes,' held at Limmer's Hotel, the members of this quaint and learned society were by Dr. Sylvanus Thompson enlightened upon the subject of the magic mirrors of Japan. For the benefit of the uninitiated, we may say that the 'Odd Volumes,' who unite once a month 'to form a perfect sette,' are a society of men distinguished in science and the arts; and, as it is a law among them that no member shall talk uninvited upon any subject which he understands, so it is their custom at each meeting to invite one of their number to talk to them upon a topic with which he is familiar. This is the genesis of 'Brother Sylvanus' lecture. From time to time there have been brought to Europe mirrors possessed of a curious magical property, which baffled the investigation of scientific men while it excited their curiosity. The mirrors are of Japanese origin, made not of glass silvered, but of cast bronze, polished on the face, and bearing on the back raised patterns, inscriptions, symbolical designs, crests, or pictures. The property in question—which few of these metal mirrors possess—is, that when exposed to a bright beam of light from the sun, or from an electric lamp, they reflect in the light from their polished face the image of the pattern on their backs. This is a purely optical property, and has, of course, a thing in common with the fortune-telling, magic crystals of the astrologer or the alleged magic mirrors of necromancy. Yet it long puzzled the scientific opticians, and even now is little known or believed. The researches of various scientific men—notably those of Professor Ayrton, who was among the guests of the 'Odd Volumes,' and Professor Parry in Japan in 1878—have established the fact that the phenomenon is due to very minute differences of curvature in the polished face, differences so minute that they do not affect the ordinary use of the mirror as a looking-glass, and are, indeed, to be detected only by delicate optical tests. The only remaining mystery has been as to how these delicate differences of curvature were produced in exact correspondence to the pattern on the back. The makers themselves are often in ignorance of the magic property, and do not know which of their mirrors possess it and which do not. The mirrors are cast in moulds and afterwards polished by hand, and it is held by Professor Ayrton that the difference of curvature is caused by the metal yielding unequally under the pressure of the tools used in scraping and polishing, the thin parts naturally bending more than the thick. This may account for some of the mirrors becoming magic. Dr. Sylvanus Thompson found, however, that this is not the only way of producing the effect, and the experiments which he showed at the gathering of the "Odd Volumes" proved that mirrors which, on leaving the maker's hands, show no magic effect, and are quite smooth on their face, can be made into magic mirrors by certain processes of heating and bending. 'Brother Sylvanus' even made some experiments, in which ordinary silvered glass mirrors were employed; handwriting and various patterns put upon the back being caused to appear upon the wall in beams reflected from their surfaces. The subject is in itself a curious and interesting one, and it lost nothing of its attractiveness in the hands of so skilful a lecturer as Dr. Thompson. Such of the brethren as were acquainted with subjects bearing on the topic of the evening were, on the conclusion of the lecture, invited by 'His Jiddship,' the President, to give their views, after which the brethren, in accordance with custom of the 'Sette,' were called upon by the President to introduce their guests and explain their title to enjoy the honour of dining with the Society."

The above account is accompanied by a reproduction of the menu card of the evening, which was drawn by Dr. Sylvanus Thompson. The card has a deep black border, scattered over which are Japanese mirrors showing various designs. In the central white table is a Japanese lady, charmingly limned after the mode of Matahei. She holds up a mirror, from which are projected, on the black border of the tablet, the ideographs ten (heaven) and a sixteen-petalled chrysanthemum. The legend above is "Ye Magick Mirrour of Old Japan." The "Odd Volumes" are evidently men of much taste.

SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

Since the interesting discovery that cultivated forms of sugar cane have not entirely lost their power of producing seed, experiments have been begun with a view of improving this important plant. During the last two years several hundred seedling canes have been raised at Barbados, Java and Kew. The variations among them have been considerable, and, while a protracted system of experiment and selection will be necessary to secure the best possible results, a few of the seedling canes have proven to be of especial value, and at least one—grown in British Guiana from a batch of Barbados seedlings, and called the Board cane—has been pronounced superior to any of the previously existing canes. It is probable that many other improved sorts will be produced.

Another electric signal for ships approaching coast-lines in fogs has been tried with some success by Mr. Charles Stevenson. An intermittent current is passed through a cable laid in deep water at some distance off the shore, and when a vessel crosses the cable an instrument on board detects and indicates the current.

A novel use of aluminum is for slate pencils, which are being made by a German company. They are very durable. The writing is as clear as that made with ordinary pencils, and it can be erased with a wet sponge.

An idea of Mr. J. Bridges-Lee, of London, consists in sheathing vessels with copper, amalgamating the entire external surface of the copper with mercury, and joining up the metal to the negative pole of a galvanic battery or direct-current dynamo. The positive pole must be led to earth connection, preferably in advance of the vessel's bow. The chief advantages claimed are—that the exposed surface of the sheathing will be kept exceptionally smooth, bright and clean; that the surface will not afford good hold for barnacles and other marine growths; that skin resistance will be much reduced, not only by the smoothness but also by the electrolytic generation of gas bubbles. It is estimated that the reduced resistance will more than compensate for the cost of maintaining the electric current; and that sufficient gold and silver will be deposited on the sheathing from the water to repay more than the value of the mercury lost.

Pomologists have been warned by Prof. C. V. Riley against two foreign insects that are likely to appear in the United states. The peach ceratitis is a subtropical insect resembling the apple maggot, is extremely destructive to the peach crop of Bermuda, and would doubtless prove very troublesome in Florida and Georgia. The Japanese peach fruit-worm is allied to the codling moth, and in some seasons damages ninety per cent. of the peach crop of Japan.

A gauge tube for boilers that will not crack from unequal cooling has been made by Dr. Schlot, of Jena, by combining two qualities of glass of different expansibility. A tube of this kind was heated with an ordinary one to about 425° Fahr. and plunged in cold water, when the second glass cracked all over while the first was not injured.

Like other large animals, the elephant is being exterminated. Reproduction is slow, while ivory-hunters are slaughtering 75,000 a year in Africa. Mr. A. G. Povarli, F.Z.S., suggests an effort to induce the hunters to capture the animals alive and saw off the tusks. The tusks are solid, and the process would be a humane and painless one.

"The United States," says Prof. Loew of the University of Munich, "is bound to become in every scientific branch the first country on earth. This is my firm conviction."

If the inferences of Lord Kelvin be true, it may be necessary to discard the favourite idea that magnetic storms, or disturbances of the earth's magnetism, are connected with sun-spots. The sun and the planets are probably all permanent magnets—the sun much the mightiest of all. But if meteoric impact, or any other possible dynamical action within the sun or in his atmosphere, produced, for example, the terrestrial magnetic storm of June 25, 1885, the recorded changes indicate that the agent must have worked at something like 160 million million million horse power, which is about 364 times the total horse-power of the solar radiation. Thus, in the eight hours of a not very severe magnetic storm, as much work must have been done by the sun in sending magnetic waves out in all directions through space as he actually does in four months of his regular light and heat. This seems to show conclusively that the magnetic storms do not depend upon the magnetic action of the sun. The investigations of Schuster have proven that the disturbance is not within the earth, and it is certainly evident that the aurora above the surface and the earth currents below are in full working sympathy with magnetic storms. While these facts are known, however, we are far from having any satisfactory explanation of any of the marvellous magnetic phenomena of the earth.

The great scheme of Mr. B. H. Thwaite, the British engineer, differs from that of the Niagara Power Company in proposing to distribute enormous electric power over a considerable portion of England's manufacturing area instead of furnishing it only to the few who can locate near the dynamos. His power would be derived from coal instead of water, but he would burn the fuel at the mines, where it costs but little. He would use gas engines of not more than 500 horse power each, and would transmit the power by high pressure alternating currents. From one station he would supply the centres of industry of Lancashire and the area adjoining the ship canal; from a second, those of Yorkshire; and from a third, those of the Midlands and London. With this system of power distribution completed, Mr. Thwaite believes that no other area in the world would have such facilities for cheap industrial production as that along the Manchester ship canal.

Within the last score of years Pasteur and others have given the world the science of bacteriology, which has shown a marvellous development and become of universal importance. Nine-tenths of all diseases of man and animals, says Prof. C. Loew of Munich, are now known to be due to species of bacteria, which enter by lungs or stomach, multiply in the blood, and yield poisonous secretions. These products kill if no powerful reaction in the body destroys the bacteria. This reaction is a most wonderful process, made the more interesting by a knowledge that one who has passed through a certain infectious disease is rendered proof for a time against a second attack. This is artificial immunity. There is also, however, a natural immunity, shown, for instance, in the facts that rats and dogs never have tuberculosis or swine plague, and most animals resist typhoid fever and Asiatic cholera. It was discovered in 1886 that the blood of an animal that had acquired immunity will destroy the bacteria and cure or prevent the disease in another animal. Both natural and acquired immunity have since been traced to albuminous matter in the blood, which destroys the bacteria, but—unlike the albuminous poison of the rattlesnake—does not affect the higher animals. From the active substance itself has been obtained at last as a dry powder, which was extracted from the blood of a rabbit after recovery from swine plague, and has all the curing properties of the blood against swine plague. This, adds Prof. Loew, is a fact of immense importance, the most important discovery in bacteriology relating to medicine.

It is not unlikely that chemists are on the verge of some epoch-making discovery. Crookes and others have been accumulating evidence indicating that the so-called elements have not the absolutely fixed atomic weights given them, or that there exists a great number of unrecognized substances shading off by almost imperceptible differences from one of our elements toward another. The latest experiment is that of Lord Rayleigh, who has prepared nitrogen by two different methods, and finds the atomic weight of one specimen to be four part less than that of the other.

THE CRISIS IN EGYPT: OFFICIAL CORRESPONDENCE: LORD ROSEBERY'S REPLY TO FRANCE.

LONDON, 6th February.

The official correspondence relating to Egypt has been issued, and mostly reports what is already known of the facts connected with the recent crisis. When M. Waddington protested against Lord Cromer's high-handed action, Lord Rosebery replied that the high-handedness was the Khedive's, who without the least warning selected as his Premier a person notoriously unfitted for the post. Lord Rosebery added that if the Khedive had carte blanche to appoint whom he pleased to the Ministry, there would be no safeguard against the repetition of the abuses of Ismail Pacha's regime. In reply to the request made by M. Waddington on the 25th of January, that we should specify the incidents which necessitated an increase of the British army of occupation, Lord Rosebery observed that Great Britain was answerable for public order in Egypt, and pointed to the necessity of precautions being taken against a riot arising from the ferment of the populace, the renewed activity of the dervishes, and the refusal of the Powers to consent to an increase in the Egyptian army.

SIR G. PORTAL AT UGANDA: STATEMENTS IN THE HOUSE.

In the Lords last night, Lord Rosebery stated that Sir Gerald Portal has from hand to act, subsequent to the withdrawal of the British East Africa Company from Uganda, including the right to take over the Company's forces. Mr. Gladstone confirmed this in the House of Commons. Mr. Labouchere thereupon withdrew his amendment. The Blue Book just issued shows that Sir Gerald Portal has been authorised to subsidise King Mwanga.
